Tasty Tidbit:

The original sponsor of this location (and the nearby Tiki Room, then called the Tropical Serenade) was the Florida Citrus Growers association. Disney designed an Orange Bird character for the association, and a version of the bird was placed on a perch in a mock tree under the canopy of the restaurant, giving the location its name. Though the bird was removed in 1986, until 2000 the tree itself remained. The only evidence now comes in the form of stylized oranges that appear in the woven panels that ring the location, just under the thatch canopy.

Pinocchio Village Haus

Counter Service – Adjacent to It's a Small World

Pizza, Cheese - $5.59
Pizza, Pepperoni- $5.89
Pizza, Vegetable and Salad - $6.29
Chicken Strips - $6.69
Turkey and Bacon Panini - $7.29

Rice Crispy Treat - $2.49

Child Meals

Macaroni and Cheese - $3.99
PB&J Sandwich - $3.99

Tasty Tidbit:

Though murals inside tell the story of Pinocchio, which originated in Italy, the restaurant's theming recalls Germany, particularly the Fachwerkhaus design of the timbers on the exterior. Indeed, the very name (Haus) is derived from German. The Italy/Germany conflation was also present in Disneyland's Village Haus, the inspiration for the Walt Disney World version.

Magic Kingdom—Fantasyland

Scuttle's Landing

Counter Service – Behind Dumbo

Pretzel, Cream Cheese - $3.79

Frozen Drinks - $3.29

Coca-Cola, Cherry, Raspberry

Tasty Tidbit:

Scuttle's Landing is themed to the nearby Little Mermaid meet-and-greet area, though the Dumbo ride and the Pinocchio-themed Village Haus are also very close. Fantasyland has always been a mishmash of Disney animated movies. The mixture was perhaps best embodied by the former name of Cinderella's Royal Table, the highly themed medieval eatery inside Cinderella Castle. Until 1997, it was known as King Stefan's Banquet Hall, even though King Stefan was a character from Sleeping Beauty, not Cinderella (a mixture perhaps only explained by the fact that the castle in Disneyland, which came first, has always been called Sleeping Beauty Castle).

Magic Kingdom—Fantasyland

Village Fry Shoppe

Counter Service – Near Cinderella's Golden Carousel

Hot Dog (¼ Pound) with Fries - $5.79
McDonald's French Fries, Large - $2.69
McDonald's French Fries, Regular - $2.39
Carrot Cake - $3.49
Apple Caramel Dippers - $3.49s
Jell-O - $1.19

Tasty Tidbit:

In the early years of the Magic Kingdom this location was named Lancers' Inn, in keeping with the theme of Fantasyland as the supposed site of a medieval tournament. In 1986, it was renamed Gurgi's Munchies and Crunchies, and in 1993 it was transformed into Lumiere's Kitchen. It finally became the Village Fry Shoppe in 2006.

Magic Kingdom—Frontierland

Aunt Polly's

Sundae, Strawberry Shortcake - $3.49

Sundae, Fudge Brownie - $3.79

Sundae, Apple Pie - $3.99

Soft Serve Ice Cream - $2.79

Soda Float - $2.99

Tasty Tidbit:

Aunt Polly, a character in Twain's Adventures of Tom Sawyer, was a natural choice for a restaurant name on Tom Sawyer Island, an homage to the Mississippi delta of Twain's era. Traces of the Twain story are rampant on the island, including a fence that is only half whitewashed.

Tasty Tidbit:

While Pecos Bill has always been in this location, it was once slightly smaller. In 1998, it swallowed the nearby Mile Long Bar and absorbed it into its walls. A remnant of the Mile Long Bar can be seen above its former entrance, now one of the entrances to Pecos Bill, where a sign announces the presence of a “saloon.”

Magic Kingdom—Frontierland

Westward Ho

Counter Service – Near Pecos Bill Tall Tale Inn and Café

McDonald's French Fries - $2.39/$2.69

Tasty Tidbit:

Westward Ho's name may have been inspired by a 1956 Disney movie of the same name, but the partnership with McDonald's was brand new. This was the very first location to open after a strategic alliance between the two well-known family brands was announced in 1998. It was perhaps fate that the two companies would collaborate. Ray Kroc, the man who made McDonald's famous, also served as an under-aged volunteer in the same Red Cross Ambulance unit in France as Walt Disney during WWI.

Soup, Clam Chowder, White - $4.49
Chili, Vegetarian - $4.49

Child Meals

Macaroni and Cheese - $3.99
Chicken, Chilled with Cheese - $3.99

Tasty Tidbit:

Because this restaurant straddles two lands—Fantasyland and Liberty Square—it sports slightly different theming on two of its exterior walls. The restaurant’s sign on the Liberty Square side includes a bald eagle clutching arrows, and writes out “chicken” and “seafood” using words. On the Fantasyland side, where the theme calls for an Old-World look that harkens back to a time when not every patron knew how to read, the restaurant announces itself with a sign featuring brass carvings of a chicken and a fish, communicating the same information without words.

Tasty Tidbit:

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) recommended 2-4 servings of fruit per day in its older food pyramid. The new guidelines, issued in 2006, call for 1 ½ to 2 cups of fruit per day, depending on your sex, age, and level of physical activity.

Tasty Tidbit:

The Sleepy Hollow theme of this eatery is well-matched to the look of Liberty Square, particularly since the nearby Haunted Mansion was modeled after houses in the Hudson River Valley, the exact spot referenced in the Headless Horseman myth.

Magic Kingdom—Main Street

Casey's Corner

Counter Service – Meeting of Main Street and Central Plaza

Hot Dog (¼ Pound) - $3.99

Corn Dog Nuggets - $3.59

Chili (Small Cup) - $1.79

Brownie - $2.39

Cracker Jack - $.99

Tasty Tidbit:

This location at the end of Main Street is home to a restaurant in most variations of the Magic Kingdom around the globe. It's called Walt's in Disneyland Paris, and Refreshment Corner in Disneyland, though the long sponsorship by Coca-Cola led to a lasting nickname as Coke Corner. Until 1995, Casey's Corner was known by the same names as its Disneyland counterpart: Refreshment Corner or Coke Corner. Several stained glass signs above doors and around chandeliers (not to mention posters around the walls) still give testament to the Coca-Cola connection.

Magic Kingdom—Mickey's Toontown Fair

Fruit Cup - $2.49
Orange - $.99
Yogurt - $1.99
Carrot - $.99
Banana - $.99
Frozen Lemonade - $3.29

Tasty Tidbit:

The theme of a farmer's market relates to the Barnstormer coaster behind this structure, which is situated on Goofy's Wise Acre Farm. The entire area was originally Grandma's Duck Farm, home to a petting zoo and a cow called Minnie Moo, whose natural markings created a highly visible "Hidden Mickey." Though Minnie Moo died in 2002, her photo can still be seen at Fort Wilderness.

Magic Kingdom—Tomorrowland

Auntie Gravity's Galactic Goodies

Flavors: Vanilla, Chocolate, Swirl

Soda Float - $3.69

Sundae - $3.79

Fruit Smoothies - $3.99

Strawberry-Banana, Cappuccino, Tropical Fruit, Orange-Pineapple

Tasty Tidbit:

The double meaning of the restaurant's name (auntie Gravity and anti-gravity) provides a humorous bridge between "home cooking" and futurism. Nor is it the only location in Tomorrowland whose name plays with words. The nearby Lunching Pad (similar to "launching pad") uses another pun, giving the entire land a breezy tongue-in-cheek feel.

Frozen Coca-Cola, Cherry, or Blue Raspberry - $3.29

Tasty Tidbit:

Until 1994, this location at the center of the land was home to the Space Bar. But there was always a counter-service restaurant in Tomorrowland named the Lunching Pad. The place now known as Auntie Gravity's Galactic Goodies was the original home of the Lunching Pad, and in 1994, a grand re-shuffling led to today's arrangement of restaurants.

Magic Kingdom Recommendations

Best Value

Pinocchio Village Haus offers a surprisingly affordable dinner salad, and tasty sandwiches are within your price range at the Columbia Harbour House. While numerous fast-food eateries beckon with attractively-priced food, only Cosmic Ray's combines so many types of food (chicken, burgers, sandwiches, salads) under one roof.

Best Taste

Cinderella's Royal Table offers the sophisticated flavors of fine dining with the casualness of Disney characters. The Liberty Tree Tavern and Plaza Restaurant are also excellent choices.

Best Location For Children

Children in strollers do best when there are bountiful tables in the seating area (and enough space between them), so check out Cosmic Ray's and Tomorrowland Terrace Noodle Station. If you're seeking a character meal, you can't go wrong with the Crystal Palace.

Best Escape From Outside Weather

For a climate-controlled escape from the outside, pop into Pinocchio Village Haus or Pecos Bill's Tall Tales Café. Be wary of Cosmic Ray's, which fills up quickly during inclement weather. One of the best spots is Columbia Harbour House, especially the often-unseen upstairs seating area.

Best Immersive Theming

Cinderella's Royal Table has everything it takes to convince you that you've left the theme park and are now in a different experience. Nothing else at the park comes close.
